Summer Wong Bird Tours

Comments for birding on tour:

Birds were still very active in June and we got great views of the birds, sometimes have great chance for bird photos but after a few tours in roll in spring time, my body was very tired so I didn't take my camera most of the time on tour, not many bird photos for this trip.

Because of the construction work in Longcanggou, we couldn't go up to the up area for Grey-hooded Parrotbill, Three-toed Parrotbill etc so we decided to leave Longcanggou one day earlier than we planned. We went to Erlangshan instead, there we got four species of parrotbills expectedly : Grey-hooded Parrotbill, Fulvous Parrotbill, Great Parrotbill and Brown Parrotbill, all found in a very small area. Streaked Barwing gave us a great long time view and Gold-fronted Fulvetta was found very sensitive and moved a lot, hard to locate it.

A Temminck's Tragopan chick was found going through a small trail and jumped up on a moss covered branch, stayed there for a while before it eventually carefully dropped down, Andrew took a photo of it and used it in his 2018 Christmas card, looked so cute on the nice green background! Male Temminck's Tragopans were found quite actively hanging around in the bamboo area, got super close view, they were not afraid of people that much.

Sichuan Wood Owl took us long time but no sign at all, then we focused on other birds and while we were chasing other small birds we found we were in the other part of the forest where I had never tried for the owl before, so I decided to give it a hopeless try, it responded immediately!!! It caused a chaos in the forest, other smaller birds like Chestnut Thrushes kept trying to attack it.

Rufous-headed Robin we saw one and heard at least 3. In the same nature reserve we also got a pair of Three-toed Woodpecker, Sichuan Treecreeper and some male Three-banded Rosefinches feeding leaves on big bushes and small trees. Chinese Wren-babbler was found quite actively singing there.

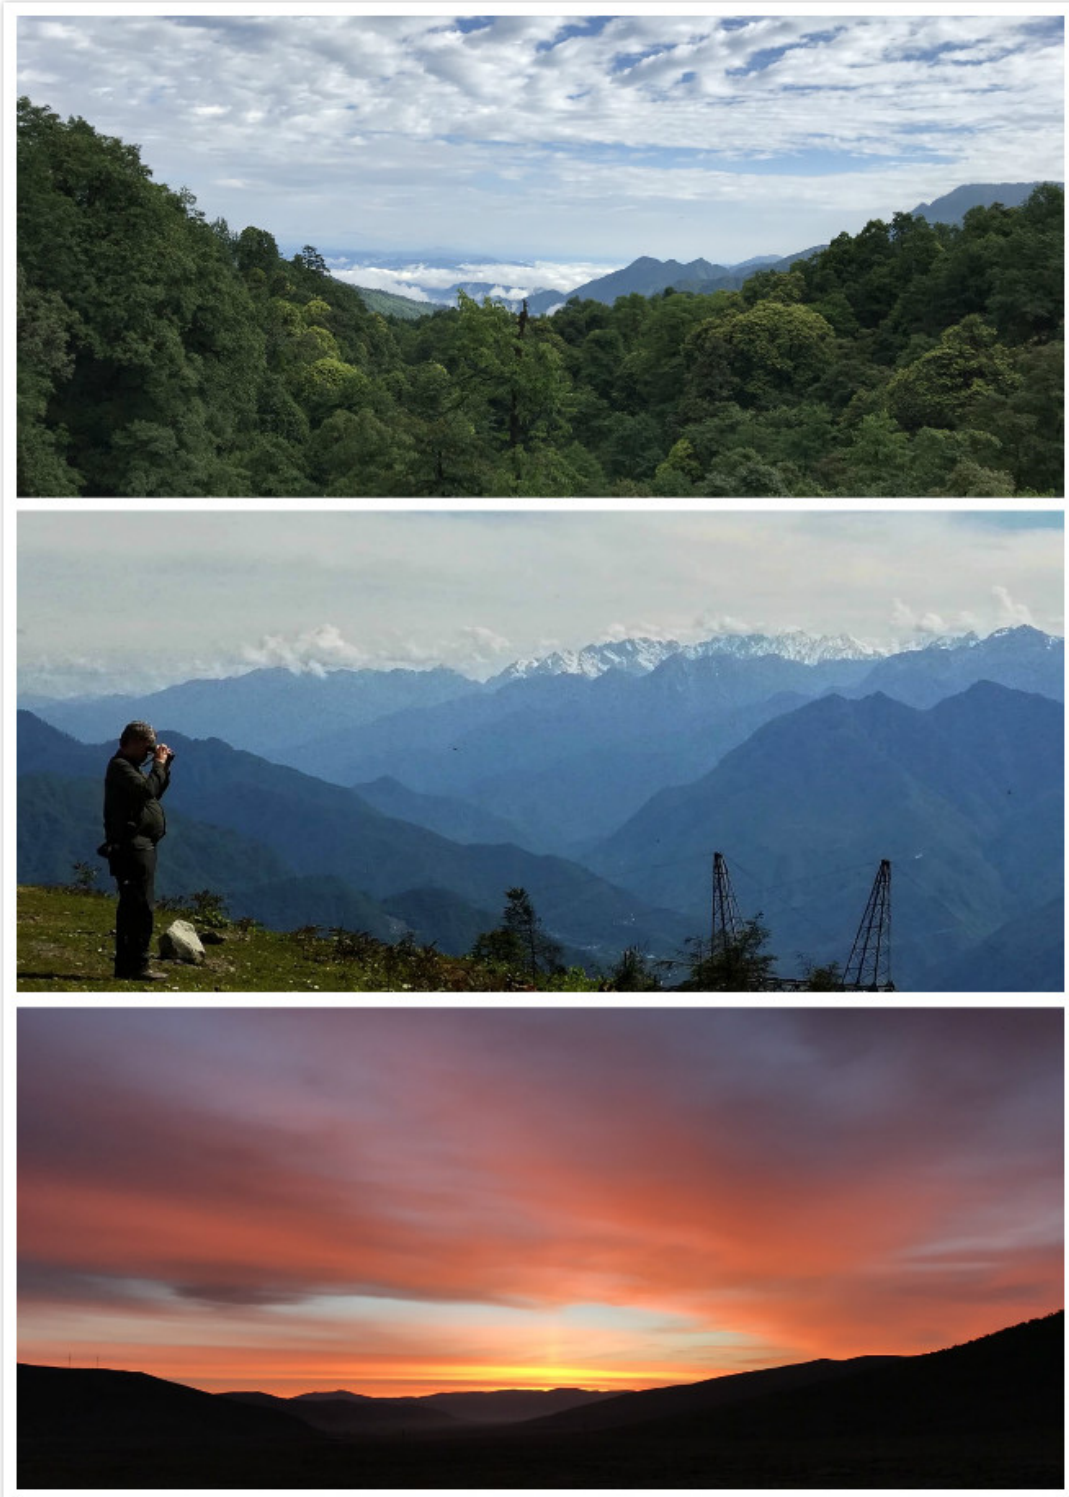

Flowers picked up by Summer from Ruoergai grassland near Flower Lake, Andrew in the background walking to the Tibetan Lark area.
